

The infamous G4 club have... seasonal depression?aa

Life is hard out there in the real world. Paris, with its dirty streets, wild rats roaming through the city, constant traffic jams, is not the same as the sunny Principality. But when you are too greedy or try and take the place of the Prince, it is easy to lose the spot in paradise. It seems that at least 2 of the G4 started realizing their mistake. Thierry Lacoste and Didier Linotte spotted in Paris sitting on the bench, sadly looking down... and reconsidering their life choices? Ah, if only they hadn't fallen into the delirium of their leader, Palmero.

One thing we know for sure – Thierry should learn how to sit on the bench like everyone else, like Linotte for example. Unless the two friends are trying to experiment with different techniques in the hope of getting back on their feet or finding new pigeons...

Read More